JUDGES PROFILE

Creative Alpaca Section

MAGGIE SEWELL

Maggie began working with alpaca in the early 1990's but her creativity began when she was only four years old. She loves the softness, warmth and durability that alpaca gives. She bought her first alpaca jumper from a market - it wasn't her size, and she thought she could do better. And there it started ... producing her first garment in 1995. Maggie co-owns "The Alpaca Centre" based in Geraldine, which was started in 1997.

ANNE FIELD

Anne has been weaving and spinning since 1962 and for the past 25 years has been teaching regularly in New Zealand, Australia, Canada, United Kingdom, Europe and the United States. Her work has been entered in many exhibitions, both in New Zealand and overseas. Anne has her studio in the Arts Centre in Christchurch, where she works on her 16 shaft AVL, computer-assisted loom.

ANNE GRYNCZK-SHAND

Anne has been the Buyer for the Craft and Gift outlet at Ballantyne's for a number of years. She has handled alpaca yarn - sourced in New Zealand from New Zealand alpaca suppliers. Having sold and bought alpaca product she feels confident that New Zealand has a demand for good quality alpaca. She welcomes the task of judging the Commercial Section.

Fleece Section

CAMERON HOLT

Cameron has had some forty years in the fibre industry as a wool broker, judge, educator and is now, although in his semi retirement, continuing with his alpaca research. He is currently judging for the Australian Alpaca Association and in his role as Senior Fleece Judge and trainer for the American Owners and Breeders Association, has been involved in the training of their judges as well as judging. Cameron, a leading alpaca fibre expert, continues his educational clinics and lectures throughout the world.

Breed Section

JENNY JACKSON

Jenny Jackson has been an accredited Alpaca Judge by the Australian Alpaca Association since 1995 and is a graduate of the International Alpaca Judging School in Peru. She has certificates in wool, mohair, cashmere and alpaca classing.

Since accreditation Jenny has judged at all the major shows throughout Australia including the 2000 and 2002 National Show. Jenny has judged internationally in New Zealand, England and Canada.

When not out on the Show circuit Jenny manages an alpaca herd of over 600 animals with the help of her Veterinarian husband George and their 16 year old daughter Sophie. Jenny is greatly interested in the use of sound breeding practice combined with objective measurement to improve the fibre quality of the Australian alpaca. They are currently involved in the world's largest embryo transfer program in alpacas. She also manages the Alpaca Information Centre, which provides workshops on animal selection and fibre assessment. Banksia Park Alpaca Stud bred the 2005 Australian National Supreme Champion Alpaca, which subsequently sold for an Australian Auction record price.

Jenny also breeds stock & quarter horses and competes at the uniquely Australian sport of camp drafting. Prior to alpaca farming Jenny was a registered nurse and midwife.
